Market & Performance Commentary

Principal Financial Advisors Second Quarter 2010 Market Overview and Commentary

After Lengthy Rally, Stocks Shift Direction

Following four positive quarters in a row, both U.S. and international stocks fell in the second quarter of 2010. The rally ended as investor concerns mounted about economic stability in Europe, slowing growth in China and the sustainability of the U.S. recovery.¹

Europe's troubles, which started with the revelation of Greece's staggering deficit and debt load, broadened as it became apparent other countries (such as Spain and Portugal) faced similar issues. Markets reacted negatively to the exposure of European banks to the sovereign and corporate debt of these countries, despite the nearly $1 trillion bailout plan put in effect by the European Union and International Monetary Fund. In China, the government's decision to reign in real estate growth weighed on international investors, as did new data indicating a slowdown in China's pace of economic growth.²

A Sputtering U.S. Recovery?

Negative economic data reported during the quarter pointed to slowing growth across the U.S. economy:

- Employers continued their reluctance to add staff. May payrolls were meager, following gains in April and March.³
- Gross Domestic Product (GDP) for the first quarter came in lower than expected. The 2.7% gain was a sharp drop from the 5.6% increase for fourth quarter 2009.⁴
- After rising for three consecutive months, consumer confidence fell unexpectedly in June, reflecting consumers' uncertainty about jobs and income.⁵
- Following expiration of the home buyer tax credit in April, new-home sales fell in May to a seasonally adjusted, annual rate of 300,000 (the lowest number since the government began tracking the figure in 1963).⁶ Meanwhile, existing home sales fell 2.2% in May after gaining 8% in April.⁷

After its June meeting, the Federal Reserve reaffirmed its belief that economic recovery is proceeding, but also acknowledged that "financial conditions have become less supportive of economic growth..." and restated its intention to keep the fed funds interest rate very low "for an extended period."⁸

In U.S. Stocks, All Sectors Struggle

The broad U.S. stock market posted a return of -11.3% as all sectors within the Russell 3000 Index delivered negative performance. The economically sensitive materials sector struggled the most. Financial stocks also were under acute pressure, as many investors grappled with the changing landscape of regulatory reform and how it might impact the industry. In this environment, growth and value performed similarly among large- and mid-cap stocks, while within small-caps, value slightly underperformed growth. From a market-cap perspective, small-caps outperformed large-caps.⁹

International Stocks Also Plummet

International stocks in developed markets returned -14.0%,¹⁰ reflecting in part the precarious financial situation in Europe. Emerging markets performed better, but still delivered -8.37%.¹¹

REITs Outperform Stocks for Quarter

Real estate investment trusts returned -4.0%¹² to outperform the broad U.S. stock market. Although real estate fundamentals were still unfavorable, access to capital for commercial real estate had improved, which drew investors hoping to participate in the asset class's recovery.

In “Flight to Safety,” Treasuries Outperform

Within fixed income, risk aversion was apparent as many investors turned to the “safe haven” of U.S. Treasuries, which outperformed other fixed-income sectors. By quarter-end, the yield on the benchmark 10-year Treasury had fallen from 3.84% to 2.95%. (Bond prices and yields move in opposite directions.) Meanwhile, investment-grade corporate bonds fell -2.25% relative to duration-adjusted Treasuries. Returns were slightly worse in the financial segment of the corporate bond market (down 2.97% relative to duration-adjusted Treasuries), due in part to uncertainty and anxiety surrounding financial regulation reform. Commercial mortgage-backed securities and asset-backed securities also lagged Treasuries, while mortgage-backed securities managed to outperform Treasuries by 0.01%.¹³ Finally, high-yield bonds returned -3.86% relative to duration-adjusted Treasuries, with the lowest-rated (highest risk) high-yield bonds performing the worst.¹⁴

Second Quarter 2010 Performance Summary

The asset allocation strategies of Principal Financial Advisors, Inc. posted negative returns, with the exception of the most conservative strategy, and lagged their respective custom benchmark indexes. Performance reflected the uptick in risk aversion which led to volatility and weak results in both the equity and fixed-income segments. In this environment, performance relative to their benchmarks was slightly worse in our fixed income-focused strategies, reflecting the underperformance of non-U.S. Treasury sectors — where most of our fixed-income portfolio is focused.

Market & Performance Commentary

U.S. Equities Lag the Russell 3000 Index

The U.S. equities segment of our strategies underperformed the broad U.S. equities market (as measured by the Russell 3000 Index), driven in part by manager underperformance within our large-cap value allocation; the large-cap value investment options within our strategies lagged not only the Russell 1000 Value Index, but also the Russell 3000 Index. Manager underperformance within the investment options that comprise our large-cap growth allocation also was a detractor. This unfavorable large-value and large-growth performance was offset by our allocation to small- and mid-cap stocks. Strong manager performance in the small-cap growth investment options within our strategies also was helpful.

International Equities Add to Returns

The international equity segment outperformed the MSCI EAFE Index, led by our allocation to international emerging markets. Our allocation to international growth also was rewarded, along with strong manager performance within our allocation to core international equities. Our allocation to international value, combined with manager underperformance within that investment option, offset otherwise favorable results.

Fixed-Income Segment Falters

The fixed-income segment of our strategies faltered this quarter, underperforming the Barclays Capital Aggregate Bond Index. Our allocation to high-yield bonds hurt returns the most, as this asset class significantly underperformed the Barclays Capital Aggregate Bond Index. Underperformance by the managers of the two core bond investment options within our strategies was detrimental, as both failed to keep pace with the index. On a positive note, our allocation to U.S. Treasury inflation-protected securities (TIPS) and manager outperformance within that investment option were beneficial.

Positive Absolute Returns in Real Estate

The Real Estate Securities Separate Account, sub-advised by Principal Real Estate Investors, added value for the broad domestic equity allocation by significantly outpacing the Russell 3000 Index. Meanwhile, the U.S. Property Separate Account, also sub-advised by Principal Real Estate Investors, generated a solid positive return as the pace of asset-value depreciation moderated considerably. This Separate Account outperformed the broad fixed-income market (as measured by Barclays Capital Aggregate Bond Index).

Market & Performance Commentary

Last 12 Months Ending June 30, 2010

All of our asset allocation strategies outpaced their custom benchmark indexes for the year, led by strong results in the fixed-income-focused strategies — due in large part to healing that occurred in the credit markets and investors' improved appetite for risk (although this sentiment reversed in the second quarter of 2010). In particular, the investment strategy of underweighting Treasuries in favor of higher-yielding fixed-income sectors was strongly rewarded in this environment.

U.S. Equities Outpace the Russell 3000 Index

The U.S. equities segment of our strategies outperformed the broad U.S. equities market (as measured by the Russell 3000 Index). An allocation to small-cap value boosted returns, as did manager performance (i.e., our small-cap value investment option outperformed not only the Russell 2000 Index Value Index, but also the Russell 3000 Index). An allocation to mid-cap stocks was a further positive. Strong manager performance within large-cap growth also benefited results. Overall, exposure to large-cap growth and large-cap blend stocks detracted from results, as these segments underperformed the broad U.S. equities market.

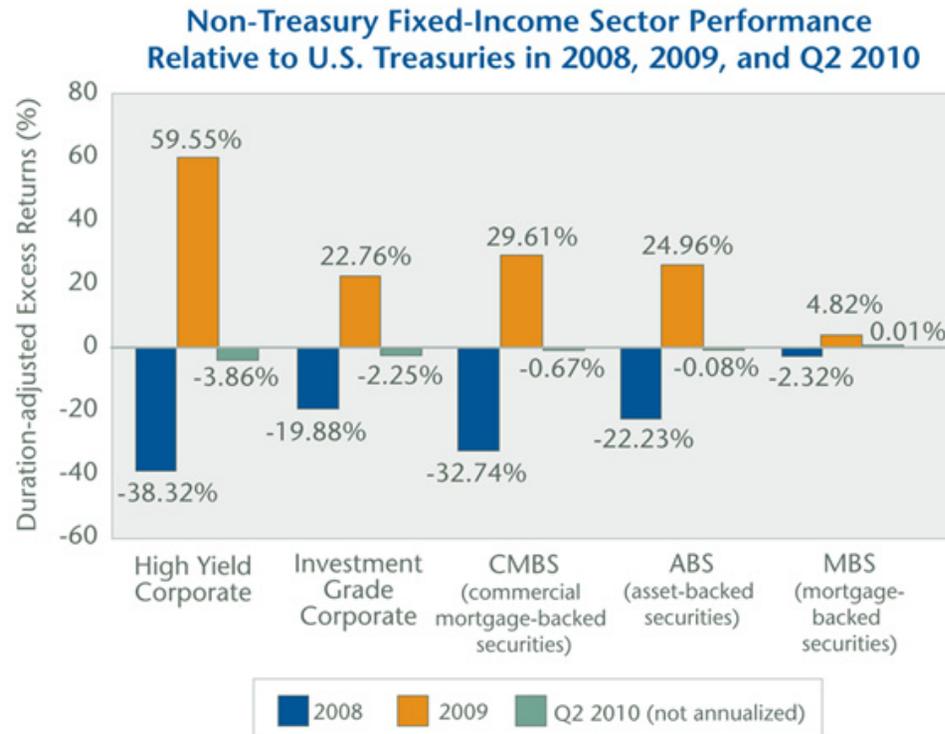

International Equities Add to Returns

Similar to the quarter, the international equity segment outperformed the MSCI EAFE Index, led by our allocation to international emerging markets. An allocation to international growth was also rewarded. An allocation to international value offset otherwise favorable results; fortunately, our international value manager performed in line with the MSCI EAFE Index, which mitigated this effect. Manager underperformance within core international also hampered returns, as both of our managers within this segment underperformed the MSCI EAFE Index.

Market & Performance Commentary

Fixed-Income Segment Boosts Absolute and Relative Returns

The fixed-income segment of our strategies continued to perform well, maintaining an advantage over the Barclays Capital Aggregate Bond Index despite weak results in the second quarter of this year. Both of our core bond managers contributed positively to returns. An allocation to high-yield bonds also benefited significantly, as this asset class led the broad fixed-income market. Individually, each of our fixed-income investment options contributed to the outperformance.

Market & Performance Commentary

As the credit markets healed and non-Treasury fixed-income sectors improved, our fixed-income segment was positioned to outperform. The Bond and Mortgage Separate Account, sub-advised by Principal Global Investors, was a primary positive contributor due to its overweight to the top-performing fixed-income sector, commercial mortgage-backed securities, and out-of-index exposure to high-yield bonds. The High Yield I Separate Account, sub-advised by JP Morgan and Neuberger Berman, also added significant value, as the high-yield sector led all U.S. fixed income for the year. This trend faltered in the second quarter of 2010 when risk aversion increased. Our fixed-income segment suffered in this environment.

Positive Absolute Returns in Real Estate

The Real Estate Securities Separate Account added value for the broad domestic equity allocation by significantly outpacing the Russell 3000 Index. Meanwhile, the U.S. Property Separate Account hindered performance as asset-value depreciation resulted in a sharply negative absolute return.

Our Goal: Strong Long-Term Performance

Principal Financial Advisors recognizes that investing for retirement requires a long-term perspective. We implement and maintain a core asset allocation strategy for each client based on a solid set of fundamental views that are designed to help maximize long-term returns while helping to control long-term risks. In this manner, we can help avoid overreacting to short-term market events that many times have little if any impact on a portfolio when compared to the portfolio's overall long-term performance. Instead, we strive to deliver consistently strong investment results over the long term for our clients' benefit.

Due Diligence Update

Over the past year the following actions have impacted client portfolios designed by Principal Financial Advisors, Inc.

Investment Manager	Investment Option	Action Taken
 	International Value I Separate Account	Placed on Watch List in April 2010 – This Separate Account was placed on the Watch List for qualitative reasons due to information the due diligence team of Principal Life Insurance Company (Principal Life) received from AXA Rosenberg on April 15, 2010. AXA Rosenberg (which uses multiple risk models and quantitative tools in its investment process) revealed that in 2009, while conducting research on a risk modeling enhancement, the firm discovered a coding error that affected the flow of information between its risk model and portfolio optimization process. AXA Rosenberg is not certain whether client portfolios were impacted positively or negatively by the coding error and has hired an outside consultant that is currently conducting a review of the situation. Please note: The other two investment managers for this core-satellite investment option ¹ – Causeway and Principal Management Corporation – remain in good standing; placement on the qualitative Watch List was triggered solely by AXA Rosenberg.
	International Growth Separate Account	Placed on Watch List in September 2009 – This Separate Account received a quantitative grade of “Less Favorable” for three out of four quarters ² and was placed on the Watch List in September 2009. The investment process of Principal Global Investors tends to struggle during periods of extreme market volatility and inflection points which characterize the markets over the past several quarters.
 	SmallCap Growth II Separate Account	Removed UBS as Sub-Advisor in July 2009 – In June 2009, Principal Life informed clients that UBS would be terminated as a sub-advisor on this investment option due to underperformance. As part of the new core-satellite structure, a substantial portion of the assets managed by UBS was absorbed by the core portfolio; remaining assets were allocated to Emerald and Essex. ¹

The due diligence team of Principal Life Insurance Company will continue to monitor performance of all Separate Accounts placed on the Watch List.³

¹ In a core-satellite structure, a Separate Account is comprised of a “core” portfolio plus two or more sub-advised “satellite” portfolios. Comprised of an enhanced index, the core portfolio is actively managed within narrow risk constraints while each actively-managed satellite portfolio strives to deliver excess return relative to the benchmark. Principal Management Corporation has responsibility for portfolio management of all core portfolios.

² Based on the quantitative scoring criteria of the Principal Due Diligence ProgramSM

³ According to the guidelines of The Principal Due Diligence ProgramSM, Separate Accounts may be placed on the Watch List for a period not to exceed 12 months. Any resulting action from the Principal Due Diligence ProgramSM process may affect the client portfolios designed by Principal Financial Advisors.
